

Special Deliveries for 2 CH-F Employees

The Community Hospital-Fairfax Obstetrics Departments witnessed a string of coincidences on Tuesday, Dec. 15, 2009.

Two CH-F employees, NyEela Harney and Sarah Husing, both welcomed their first children.

NyEela and Ryan Madden welcomed baby girl Olive Nahla and Sarah and Travis Husing introduced baby boy Sawyer Jacob to the world.

Olive and Sawyer have more in common than just their birthdays. Both were born weighing 7 pounds, 5 ounces.

Along with being fellow employees, Sarah, a pharmacy technician and NyEela, a nurse, both live in Maryville, MO. and chose to travel to Fairfax for the delivery of their babies.

For the Husings, choosing Community Hospital-Fairfax for Sawyer's delivery was an easy decision.

"We came here because Dr. Burke was there for us during the years we were trying to have a baby and we trusted him with the delivery of Sawyer," Sarah said.

NyEela knows Community Hospital-Fairfax provides a positive experience for new mothers, because as a nurse, she has assisted in many deliveries.

"I know the staff very well and I know that they work hard to make it feel personal, so I knew my delivery would be positive as well," NyEela said.

Olive and Sawyer were sent home with "Baby's First Christmas" onesies as gifts from their mothers' co-workers.

Caption: Pictured above are Sawyer Jacob Husing (left) and Olive Nahla Madden (right), who were born on the same day at Community Hospital-Fairfax.